Gujarat: Budget spending below 60% after three quarters

GANDHINAGAR/ VADODARA: Despite tall claims of being a gatisheel (fast moving) government, the Vijay Rupani government has been unable to spend more than 60% of its allocated funds in three quarters of the financial year. Many departments have shown spending below 50% of the budget estimate, while departments such as climate change have spent below 5% of their budget.

A senior officer privy to the developments said, "Departments are not able to meet their budgetary spending targets. Some have shown extremely poor performance. Despite clear quidelines from the government to not park budgetary allocations at Gujarat State Financial Services Limited (GSFSL), most departments have parked major portions of the funds they claim to have used, so even the 59% budget spending figure does not reflect the true picture. There is a need for greater financial discipline."

Nitin Patel, deputy chief minister and finance minister said, "Due to the model code of conduct in place ahead of the Lok Sabha elections and the extended monsoon, many works were delayed even and budget spending has been good considering factors. development work is now on in full swing and we will be able to meet budget estimate

Cancer prompts warring couple in City to close cruelty chapter

AHMEDABAD/VADODARA: Engaged in a divorce battle for last five years, a city-based doctor called truce with his wife after he was diagnosed with

The doctor withdrew his plea in the Gujarat high court challenging the divorce granted by Ahmedabad family court four years ago with a poignant request to his wife to please not use the allegations of cruelty against him in the

The request stemmed from the fact that the family court had granted divorce to his wife on the ground that the she had suffered cruelty from the husband.

Last week, the husband called it guits in the court with a proposal to the wife stating that he wished to spend rest of his time without the "black dot in his life" and hence she should not use the allegations of cruelty against him in future.

The wife, a class I officer with the central government, too reciprocated and submitted before the HC that she has no inclination to initiate any proceedings against the doctor.

She assured the court, "The allegations of cruelty will not be used as a weapon in future for any other purpose.

Woman living peacefully with her son

Her advocate Aftab Ansari said that the woman is living life peacefully with her son after her divorce from the

According to case details, the couple had got married in March 2007 and became parents to a boy. After matrimonial disputes cropped up, the wife filed for divorce in Ahmedabad's family court in 2014 citing cruelty on part of her husband.

In 2016, the family court granted divorce under the Dissolution of Muslim Marriage Act by accepting the woman's contention that she was a victim of cruelty on part of her husband.

The husband challenged this divorce in the HC and continued to assert that the family court had wrongly concluded that he was cruel in the domestic relationship.

After the wife had filed for divorce, the doctor too approached the family court to assert his conjugal rights and won the case. The wife filed an appeal against this court order directing her to go and live with her husband in the HC. The HC quashed the order and directed the family court to readjudicate the issue.

MSU kicks off project to restore Bhukhi nullah

Vadodara:

University's Faculty of Science has kicked off a project to restore Bhukhi nullah. This non-perennial tributary of the Vishwamitri river flows through the middle of the varsity's main campus too on a stretch of around 2.82 km. Around 15 students of MSU's department Environmental Science have started analyzing the overall biodiversity of the stretch including its plant, microbes, water quality, soil quality and sources of soil and wet waste that is dumped in Bhukhi nullah, as part of their dissertation studies. "After students complete the analysis, we will conduct workshop with field experts and Vadodara Municipal Corporation (VMC) on what can be done to upgrade the stream," said department head, Prof Kauresh Vachhrajani. "Once we have a plan, we will start with the restoration mapping. The complete restoration will be done with the support of VMC and NGOs.

" he said, adding that the plan is to make it a pilot project that can act as a model for holistic development of the river.

The faculty showcased its project at an Open House held at the campus on Friday, both the chancellor and vice-chancellor assured their full support to the project. While the state government has sanctioned some grants to restore Bhukhi nullah, the department of architecture too in the past had submitted restoration plans. "We will take inputs from all quarters as we move ahead with the restoration project," said Vachhrajani, adding inputs from Botany department will also be included to understand what plants can be grown here for biodiversity.
